8. RECRUITMENT PRACTICES

8.1 Working with Children Checks

South Australia has introduced stronger, more effective, and transparent screening laws for people working or volunteering with children. The new laws mean that, from 1 July 2019, everyone working or volunteering with children must have valid child-related screening.

The Working With Children Check (WWCC) is required under legislation

The new Working With Children Check (WWCC) introduced from 1 July 2019 replaces the current system.

Changes include:

- WWCCs replace all other types of child-related employment screening checks.
- People can apply for their own WWCC, to help them be job-ready

- Only the South Australian Department of Human Services (DHS) Screening Unit can do a WWCC.
- A WWCC is valid for five years and is portable across organisations and roles in South Australia.

There are transitional arrangements to make it easier for people to move to the new scheme:

- All current, valid DHS/DCSI child-related employment screening clearances will be recognized as WWCCs under the law, until they expire.
- Certain industries will have staggered entry times to the new scheme, to help them transition smoothly.
- National Police Certificates assessed by organisations are valid for working with children until 1 July 2020.
- Organisations can also require a National Police Check (which provides criminal history information) for people working or volunteering with children in addition to the WWCC but the NPC is not required under legislation.

Guidance for Archery SA

It is recommended by the Department of Human Services (DHS) that each club register as an organisation with the DHS of Human Services for the purpose of managing WWCC held by their members.

For Organisations:

- i. This will make it possible for organisations to apply for a check on behalf of a person who will be working or volunteering with children.
- ii. The Department of Human Services requires organisations to be registered with the Screening Unit. Archery clubs need to register only once.
- iii. the Board or a Management Committee of member clubs may decide how to manage their registration with the screening unit in order to make undertake and manage the WWCC of its volunteers.

A board or management committee may be liable if they do not manage the WWCC of its volunteers or employees.

For Individuals

- i. WWCC screening can be completed by the individual-online at the Department for Human Services portal. At the completion of the application the individual would receive a reference number, this number is provided to the club and/or association that the individual is working at (paid or volunteer).

- ii. On receipt of the reference number, the organisation should go to the website and confirm that the person has a WWCC.
- iv. ARCHERY SA and its Member clubs can provide ongoing support and awareness by accessing the relevant organisations regarding working with children checks WWCC and mandated notifications with Child Protection.
